About EISTCP

Education Improvement Scholarships Tax Credit Program

The Virginia Education Improvement Scholarships Tax Credit Program gives state tax credits to persons or businesses donating to scholarship foundations that provide scholarships to students attending private schools.

To qualify for a scholarship, students must be Virginia residents entering a private school in Virginia and meet household income guidelines.

APPLY NOW

Each school must submit an application to Anabaptist Scholarship Foundation of Virginia, verifying that the school complies with Virginia health and safety laws, occupancy permits, and accreditation requirements or annual assessments. The school must also provide ASFVA with an updated tuition schedule each school year.

A family must complete a Family Application to qualify for a scholarship award. Annual household income must not exceed 300% of current federal poverty guidelines (in 2016, $72,750 for a family of four), or 400% of current federal poverty guidelines for a household with a student with a disability.

Scholarship funds can be awarded only to children entering a private school as a kindergartener or first grader, or transferring from a public school. However, after a child has received a scholarship he is eligible in following years if the household meets the income guidelines.

Funds for any qualified student will be paid directly to their participating school.

Anabaptist Scholarship Foundation of Virginia, a 501(c)(3) organization, was formed in 2014 to accommodate donations made through the Virginia Education Improvement Scholarships Tax Credit Program.

About ASFVA

Anabaptist Scholarship Foundation of Virginia

The foundation guides donors and schools in meeting the requirements of the law.

ASFVA serves private schools all across Virginia, accepting donations and providing them as scholarships to children entering private schools. Its goal is to channel financial assistance to families that choose to educate their children in private schools that have Christ as the central theme and focus in their curriculum and services.

Since ASFVA has been approved by the Commonwealth of Virginia, ASFVA may accept donations and provide those donor-directed funds to schools and students as scholarships.
